Hortica offers specialized risk management services and pro-active claims handling to its clients.

Hortica avoids over-reacting to one or several years of adverse loss experience with established clients.

During the last five years Hortica distributed over $500,000 to support various industry associations including:

- American Floral Endowment (AFE)
- American Nursery & Landscape Association (ANLA)
- Garden Centers of America (GCA)
- Horticultural Research Institute (HRI)

- Wholesale Florist & Florist Supplier Association (WF&FSA)
- And numerous state associations

Hortica takes a “balanced” approach to government relations activities (lobbying) with concern for not only our business but the long-term viability of the horticultural industry as well. We have even lobbied insurance regulators on behalf of the horticultural industry when, from purely a financial view, it was not in our best interest to do so.

Hortica always provides personalized customer service. A friendly professional will be available to guide our clients whether they are requesting a quote, requesting a certificate, reporting a claim or just asking questions concerning their policy.

Hortica understands that our success is directly tied to the success of both the horticultural industry and the businesses we insure.

HOW THAT BENEFITS YOU AND YOUR INDUSTRY:

Hortica assists clients to avoid and/or reduce losses which means bottom line cost-savings to their operation. Hortica provides industry specific risk management topics online. If a claim occurs, Hortica provides prompt, fair and hassle-free claims settlements.

Hortica is more willing to provide critical insurance to member companies considered high-risk and/or during certain business cycles when typical insurance companies restrict coverage.

Hortica is the only U.S. insurance company that dedicates the majority of its resources to the horticultural industry. Hortica’s contributions support the research, governmental relations, educational scholarships, and industry education programs these organizations provide to the horticultural industry. These activities work directly to improve both the profitability and development of horticultural industry firms.

This approach to government relations supports the long-term health and viability of the horticultural industry and may develop innovative solutions to industry concerns.

Hortica clients appreciate talking to a “live” person instead of frustrating endless voice mail prompts.

Hortica makes many decisions solely to benefit the horticultural industry and/or our clients.
